

Dear Friends,

In February 1913, Rudolf Steiner delivered a lecture on the being Anthroposophia, a hundred years later we can ask ourselves, how have we participated in this being?

Do we feel her moving in our circles? Can we feel the tickle of joy at her presence when we gather in the work? Where does Anthroposophia live in us? How do we create the spaces for her to rest her head when we gather?

Have we loved each other fiercely enough to brush away the very present forces that desire us to forget our inheritance? Alone I will never remember everything I came here to do, I will lose the voice of the beings who I wish to serve. It is only in your heart, your witnessing and love that I remember. "Where two or more are gathered..."

When the Anthroposophical Society was just separating from the Theosophical Society, Rudolf Steiner said that it struggled, as it remained a group of individuals doing good work and not a cohesive movement. As we look to the future, to our society, or its being, we must ask ourselves how are we coming together? How can I listen to you so intently that I am able to not just hear what you are saying, but where my love actually reveals what you are trying to become? How can I be with you so that my love participates in your path to freedom?

What if we could take our work to greater depths in the world? Can we come together in joy and celebration of all that has been done and with clarity and love for what is to come? There is so much to be done, so much that can be born out of our movement/society. This society holds the possibility for such profound healing for the world.

It is the very work of our time to once again come into community, no longer as a tribe but as a group of free individuals. This is the work! It is work because it will not come naturally to us. We must choose it. We must choose to love despite our differences. We must choose to love because of our differences. Can we do it? Can we take up our destiny?

In Dornach from the 21st to 24th of February 2013, we want to invite a space that truly allows us to come together, and meet each other again for the first time, listen into the silence, and hear each other's hearts task, to come together and speak out a foundation for our work, to step fully into loving relationships that will truly allow the being Anthroposophia to live amongst us as a movement/society . . . and to allow us as a society/movement to bring Anthroposophia through our shared work to the world.

'What, therefore, must be developed? It must unfold that, once again, as a matter of course, a "Sophia" becomes present. But we must learn to relate this Sophia to the consciousness soul, bring her down directly to human beings. This is happening during the age of the consciousness soul. And thereby Sophia becomes the being who directly enlightens human beings. After Sophia has entered human beings, she must take their being with her and present it to them outwardly, objectively.

Sophia will become objective again, but she will take with her what humanity is, and objectively present herself in this form. Thus, she will present herself not only as Sophia, but as Anthroposophia – as the Sophia who, after passing through the human soul, through the very being of the human being, henceforth bears that being within her, and in this form she will confront enlightened human beings as the objective being Sophia who once stood before the Greeks.'

'Why is it that the hearts of those who have a sense for spiritual things beat more quickly whenever the name of Michael is uttered? Such people feel in the depths of their hearts that Michael is a Being who has performed a deed without the fulfillment of which humanity must have proceeded further and further along a path leading to the edge of an abyss. Just as Christ performed a deed through which He gained the victory over death, so Michael, by another deed, has made it possible for man to save himself from complete hardening in material existence. When we find old pictures representing Michael warring with the dragon, we must recognize in this dragon that influence which seeks to drive man into earthly hardness and rigidity. It is this influence with which Michael does battle. In him, therefore, there is no element of hardness, only goodness, beneficence and infinite mobility.'
